Ocean Freight

International commerce today rides over the waves on thousands of ocean vessels that connect buyers and seller, suppliers and manufacturers and other trading partners around the globe. Complex supply chains constrained by time-sensitive lead times extend around the world on ocean trade lanes. Retailers now source the vast majority of their inventory from distant lands, and they depend on ocean freight to meet demanding customer service levels. U.S. manufacturers increasingly sell to foreign customers and depend on ocean transportation to complete the transaction.

With so much literally riding on the quality and dependability of ocean freight services, U.S. exporters and importers need a partner like Nippon Express USA to make sure they receive the performance they require. With over 130 years of experience managing ocean transportation and more than 51,000 skilled freight professionals around the world, and tremendous shipping volume that it leverage on behalf of its customers, Nippon Express is a powerful ocean shipping partner to have.

Nippon Express USA is ready and able to provide the exact type of ocean service the customer requires. For example, exporters and importers have several choices to make when selecting the level of support they need for managing their ocean transportation. Nippon Express USA can fill every one of these roles:

International Carrier Management

Nippon Express USA will reserve and books space on ocean carriers on behalf of its customers. The ocean carrier issues the bill of lading and the shipment moves under the carrier's tariff or contract. Nippon Express helps the customer select the carrier and
